

Impeccability

This is the aim for a warrior in the path towards freedom. There is a high demand in this planet for beings that uphold the value of being impeccable in all their interactions, thoughts and deeds. Impeccability has many meanings as to reflect perfection and purity, but in the deepest sense is to act without consequence in your mind and emotions. What do I mean by that? That all your thoughts and actions do no cause an undermining effect upon the way you view yourself, others and life. It is a vow to act in a way that you are not causing emotional pain in yourself and others. To act impeccably is to act without sin. But not sin as explain by the scholars of the church, but sin meaning the action that result in a consequence that mitigates your integrity and that of others, through many strategic means of self importance and egocentric actions.

Pride and the protection of one false sense of me, to obtain what you want without thinking of the consequences cause to others is the dark path that take you away from the warrior truth and from our Father God. This is the road that will lead you to suffering and the cause of suffering for those that surrounds you. There is no amount of meditation and self- realization that can bring happiness if you are not impeccable in your life. If you are not ready to surrender your pride to become a true warrior and example for others to follow. There is a trap in the path to enlightenment that if you fail to understand that all your actions have a consequence and if your are not willing to admit to that, then you are bound to reap the consequences of all your actions, not only with your own emotional body, but in the minds of those that love you or are dear to you.

We are warriors in this life and our only mission is to attain happiness, love and evolve without limitation towards God. All the consequences that may resonate by attaining that perception of freedom are but ripples in the water that will touch the life of others. There is no more time for nonsense in this life and to hide behind masks and titles that don't represent your heart, but are only food for you Ego and the demons that feed from it. We must become transparent in all our expressions in order to be able to attain a freedom that can only be bestowed to those warriors that are impeccable in all they do.

The rewards of living this way are far from just moral codes or social expectations. Integrity and impeccability are expression of the heart, not of the mind. They move at their own accord and not under a law of man and society. We are here to become free and to establish a new age of brotherhood and love under the Blessings of the One and Only All Mighty God. I'm here to fulfill Jesus teachings as he intended to transmit to all. Now is the time to reevaluate your life and decide if you are to take that warrior path of freedom. Are you?

God Bless you Now and Always!
