

OPINIONS

Many times people forget about the nature of things. Is easy to forget that all you see is plainly As It Is. Nothing in Nature is different as it seems to be as true Reality is Perfect and Eternal. There is no point to change the world around us, with those opinions that you add to the common sense of the way things are. Opinions are but daggers that deform that nature of true reality. If we as humans could conceive but one universal opinion we would call it Absolute Reality, but humankind is far from being able to agree with one thing at the time, then what to expect with the agreement of the most trivial things in our lives.

Opinions are but subjective to the one that has them. Opinions are but tools of describing reality through your eyes. Is it not that you have an opinion for everything that you have seen and experience? Think about it for a second and try to remember how many opinions you have about everything in your life. That bible of opinions is your religion of interpreting life as you have created in your mind. How far can you go with your opinions in your life? As far as the others around let you, in the sense that agreement has to be achieve to maintain the veracity of your opinion against others, If not they may call your opinion a lie. So what's to say about the reality of your opinions if are only real for you and not everybody else? Maybe, you have your fan club of people that love your opinions but that doesn't make them real and far from being truth. Only Truth is Real.

Where to find Truth you ask? Just look everywhere in Nature and you find Truth.

All things are just as they are = Truth.

When you retrieve your opinion from something only reality shines. Let use the example of the lake. You may say this lake is beautiful. That is your opinion. Other may say that lake is ugly. That is his opinion. But the fact is that is the exact same lake. Only your distorted view is qualifying Truth. Truth is Perfection don't you know? Perfection can't be change or added too. It is as it is; Perfect. Is God's unlimited expression through a single point of existence. That lake is perfect as it was meant to be all that adorns the Heavens and the Earth. So you are the one living the lie. You that say that the lake is beautiful or the other that says that is ugly. Both are living the lie. Both are changing Reality to accommodate your picture of reality. Reality in caps is universal truth. But, reality in lower caps is your invention. If both people where to remove their opinion about the lake and see it as it is, both will agree in one thing. Is perfect because nature is perfect.-

So the imperfection lies in the opinion. Nature is perfect (God's creation) because all nature beings see things as there are. Humans are the only ones that see things the way they think they want them to be. In what is this to help you find your own truth? Easy, when you discover that your opinions are subjective to your experience about reality you will understand that not all that shines is gold. In other words lets say that if you let go of your opinion in a way that are not being take seriously by you and are not part of your mythological reality, (all is simple as stones as in the rain), you will be able to see that if you are able to observe your opinions as a label for Reality, that all Reality will begin to appear more clear to your eyes. The dream will become less confusing and you will start to wake up.

So from now on look intensively to your desire to be opinionated, about all things and specially opinions about you. Do not demand others to comply with your opinions, because those opinions are true only for you. If someone wants to share your lie, is welcome as this world has been sharing lies since the beginning of the fall from grace. So, jump now from this opinionated ways of perceiving things and respect other opinions as you know are not real. So who cares!! Not me for sure so wont you just let go and be free from the closet of opinions where they hang waiting for you to wear them? Yes, it is only a moment in time that you need to fall again in holding to an opinion, but is the same moment you have to realized the faulty of you perception.

Life will begin to have a new meaning when you learn not to take your self so seriously and to defend your own opinions as if protecting your own life. Practice the art of understanding things. A great truth has been revealed for you today. What are you going to do? Are you going to label an opinion to these words or are you going to practice and see the results? Are you going to forget the words as you forget most things in time or are you going to take this knowledge at heart and free your self from the wave of lies that you have created. After all freedom is in your hands.-